New board members who took up their duties Monday included Mrs. A. Harrison Barr, Mrs. Wilbur Plank and Mrs. J. B. Collins, of Gettysburg, and Mrs. Cameron Hoffman, Arendtsville.

Mrs. Frank Kramer and Mrs. Walters, recently re-elected as directors, were installed for their second terms. Miss Carrie Miller, elected last month as a new Gettysburg director, could not be present for the installation.

GIRLS BEAT BOYS IN HISTORICAL SOCIETY QUIZ

A team of four girls defeated a quartet of boys, all juniors in the Gettysburg high school, during a true and false historical quiz before the members of the Adams County Historical society in the law library in the court house Monday evening.

The quiz, which was presented under the direction of Miss Louise Ramer, of the high school faculty and a member of the society's program committee, featured the April session of the organization.

The participants in the quiz are enrolled in the American history class at the high school. They answered questions that had been prepared by local students. Albert Shulley and Catherine Marsden, who filled the roles of "doctors of quizology," conducted the program and presented the questions to these contestants:

Mary Bollinger, Nadene Plank, Helen Spangler, Jean Zinkand, Joseph Berger, Ernest Brindle, Theodore Harner and Carl Menchey. Three of winning girls were each presented with a picture of the Dobbin house, while Miss Plank, who was the last student standing in the quiz, received a framed picture of the Dobbin house.

P.O.S.A. LAUDS DIES, CONGRESS FOR INQUIRY

Resolutions commending Congressman Martin Dies and his committee and congress itself "for their efforts to clean out of the nation once and for all forces that would destroy our form of government" were adopted Monday evening at a P. O. S. of A. convocation in New Oxford which was described by lodge officers at one of the largest and most enthusiastic P. O. S. of A. meetings held in Adams county in a number of years.

The occasion was the initiation of 20 new members into the New Oxford camp No. 22 of the order. State President Edward Ray Strayer, Philadelphia, and other state officers were present for the occasion as well as county district presidents and representatives of five of the P. O. S. of A. camps in the county.

Guest Speakers

The resolutions on un-American activities condemned forces which "are attempting to discredit and subvert" the work of the Dies committee and placed the lodge squarely behind the Dies group in its recent raid in Philadelphia. A condemnation of the American Civil Liberties union and its "subversive activities" was added and the request was made that the Civil Liberties union be added to the list for investigation.

Guest speakers in addition to the state president were Charles D. Helms, Philadelphia, state secretary; James D. Wallace, Penbrook, state master of forms; George H. Laro, Jr., Philadelphia, secretary of the national beneficial association, and J. Elmer Eyer, Mill Hill, Pa., who was at New Oxford to confer with state officers on plans for the state convention to be held in June at Lock Haven.

Local Lodgement Present

One hundred and ten lodgements witnessed the initiation of the new members by the degree team from the Hanover camp. Curtis Sponseller, president of the New Oxford camp, presided. Speakers were introduced by George D. Sheely.

Among the five Gettysburg lodgements in attendance was J. E. Snyder, a district president in Adams county. Dr. Eugene Elgin, East Berlin, president of the other district of the county, also was present. GETTYSBURG'S SCHOOL BOARD STUDIES BUDGET

A tentative, proposed budget for Gettysburg public schools for the school year of 1940-41 went under the scrutiny of members of the board of education Monday evening at the regular April meeting in the office of Superintendent L. C. Keefe at the high school building. The budget, which is similar to that under which the schools are operating this year, anticipates expenses of about $109,449.

The budget will be advertised and then brought up for final action on May 13 when the directors will fix the tax rate for next year and base the budget upon that rate. The directors went over the budget item by item Monday evening and each took a copy home with him. The budget was prepared by Superintendent Keefe.

The board directed Superintendent Keefe to advertise for supplies for the next school year.

Thanksgiving Day Fixed

Without formality of a record vote the board ordered the calendar for the next school year amended to show November 28, the last Thursday of the month, as Thanksgiving Day, although November 21 had been designated in the first approved draft of the school calendar. The pronouncement by Governor James that his proclamation will designate the old date as Thanksgiving day this year brought the change.

Permission will be sought to use St. James Lutheran church for the annual baccalaureate services for the Gettysburg high school seniors on the evening of June 2. The speaker has not yet been secured. June 3 is high school commencement night and the eighth grade commencement will follow on June 4.

Repairs to electrical work at the Meade school building were ordered on the basis of an estimate submitted by the H. and T. Electric company.

A request from the Gettysburg Baseball association that roofed bleachers be erected at the baseball diamond had to be turned down because the board has no money for that purpose although individual members agreed that such an improvement is needed.

Defer Action on Heating Plant

The directors heard E. M. Donohue, a representative of the Sargo company, Lancaster, and Milton Plank, Gettysburg plumber, explain recommended changes in the Lincoln school building heating plant.

The cost of the proposed changes was estimated at about $300. Directors deferred action for further study.

The monthly report of the Gettysburg National bank, school district treasurer, showed disbursements of $8,818 last month and receipts of about $2,800, including $1,000 in tuition and $700 in taxes. The general fund balance at the end of the month was $23,239 with a $2,500 balance in the sinking fund. The monthly high school cafeteria report showed receipts of $198 and expenses of $191.29 for last month.

All members of the board attended with President Arthur E. Hutchinson presiding.

PUPILS OFFER 2 SHORT PLAYS

A fair-sized crowd attended the final meeting of the year of the Fairfield Parent-Teachers' association Monday evening in the Fairfield community building. Mrs. Ellmore H. Slaybaugh, the president, presided.

Two one-act plays were presented by the grammar school students who were in charge of the program. Ralph Neely, a pupil of the fourth grade, led the group in the Lord's prayer.

Casts for the plays follow: "Crash of the Air Mail"—Junior Weikert, Paul McLaughlin, Russell Summers, Jay Brown, Dale Musselman, Rodney Harbaugh, Clyde Rohrbach, Bill Shindedecker, Wayne Shindedecker, Bobby Siles and James Weikert, and "The Fleckle Friend"—Betty Jane Kaufman, Ruthanna Kline, Virginia Landis, Betty Landis, Ruth Jean Musselman, Mary Clark, Margaret Weikert, Joan Wentz, Ariene Rohrbach, Janet Musselman, Loraine Rohrbach, Doris Selter and Jane Rock.

The primary room, taught by Miss Mary Louise Scott, won the award for having the most parents in attendance. The same room also was the winner for the year's total attendance.

Mrs. William S. Culbertson, chairman, who was scheduled to speak, did not attend due to poor traveling conditions.

The executive committee, which will serve as the nominating committee, will report at the fall meeting.

Health Officer Is Transferred

Harrisburg, April 9 (AP)—D. E. McCauslin, health officer of Adams county, was transferred today to the state department's headquarters in the capitol as the first move in an educational program.

Dr. John J. Shaw, secretary of Health, said county health officers in other areas of the state would be brought here "from time to time for educational work."

"We think this will greatly build up our organization when the program gets under way," Shaw said. The Adams county officer was the first to be selected because of the proximity and also "things are in such shape there that we can spare him for the present," the secretary said.

McCauslin's salary of $1,860 remains unchanged.

Property Transfers

Grant and Olive D. Corbin, Cumberland township, have sold to Robert E. and Helen M. Markle, Gettysburg, a lot at Grandview Terrace along the Biglerville road in Cumberland township.

London, April 9 (AP)—The British foreign office was said authoritatively tonight to have re-established communication with Norway and to have been informed that the Norwegian government are "in good heart and bent on resistance."

BRITISH NAVY TO AID NORWAY AGAINST REICH

London, April 9 (AP)—Britain's powerful navy is moving into the northern conflict to aid Norway against German invasion. Prime Minister Chamberlain told the house of commons today in a brief, lustily-cheered speech.

Chamberlain charged that Germany had premeditated the invasion of Norway and Denmark and he pledged the "full aid" of Britain and France to Norway.

"Powerful units of the navy are at sea," Chamberlain told the house, explaining that details must necessarily be kept secret.

Reports reached London by way of Paris that allied naval forces already were engaged with the Germans at various points along the Norwegian coast in a heavy storm.

Cities Planning

Chamberlain said it was plain that the German expedition to Scandinavia must have been underway before Britain mined Norwegian waters Monday, otherwise it could not have occupied such faraway points at Trondheim, on Norway. (Continued on Page Two)

General War Looms as Battlefield Is Opened

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign Affairs
Writer

The Anglo-French mine-field, sowed in neutral Norwegian waters, has blown up in Europe's face as was a foregone conclusion.

"The result is the beginning of the general European war which the world has feared and which now may be expected to spread."

The break has come after a series of most extraordinary events. On Saturday Norwegian Foreign Minister Kihl declared that any such interruption of shipping would drag his country into the war. Sunday the allies laid their mines and sat back to see what would happen. Monday night Kihl's prediction came true.

Because the reaction in the mine-laying experiment was as certain as that blue litmus will turn red in acid, it must be assumed that the allies weren't surprised, to say the least.

Battlefield Opened

Nazidom today charges that "for months England and France have attempted to make a new battlefield out of Scandinavia." The allies have denied similar claims before, and will deny this.

However, the thing which matters is that a battlefield has been opened up there now. The important fact

London, April 9 (AP)—A British source said tonight that it "understands a naval action is in progress somewhere near the coast of Norway" between British and German forces.

Stockholm, April 9 (AP)—The city of Oslo, capital of Norway, surrendered to German forces at 4 p. m. (10 a. m. E.S.T.) today.

Dispatches reaching Stockholm said that the Norwegian police chief had resigned and that he was replaced by German officials.

North of Oslo Norwegian aircraft was reported to have shot down two German planes.

The Norwegian government moved to the lake village of Hamar, North of Oslo.

The Norwegian army was reported to be guarding a defense line between Oslo and Hamar to protect the new capital and to cover the mobilization of inland troops.

Fully half of the population was reported to have left Oslo before the city surrendered to German troops.

The Germans were landed from warships along the city's harbor.

The Swedish parliament was called into session for 8 p. m. (2 p. m. E.S.T.) tonight.

Stockholm received reports from Norway and Denmark with a serious calm. It was recognized as a black day.

Norwegians here returned home as quickly as they could.

All ferry traffic between Denmark and Sweden was stopped, while traffic between Norway and Sweden continued.

From northern Sweden it was reported that the German invasion of Norway met opposition, and that at least two German ships were sunk at Narvik, the northern port from which Germany has been shipping Swedish ore.

The Germans mounted machine-guns at all places they occupied.

The Danish warship Preja arrived in the Swedish harbor of Helsingborg at 1:30 p. m. (7:30 a. m. E.S.T.). Earlier in the morning 150 Danish soldiers who arrived by ferry were interned.

Oslo before the surrender reported that all roads from the town were blocked by German troops, who halted the withdrawal of civilians. Many had left before, however.

No bombs were dropped, Oslo reports said.

BERLIN REPORTS OCCUPATION IS MOVING FORWARD

Berlin, April 9 (AP)—The German high command announced this afternoon that "occupation of the most important objectives in all Norway by German troops is proceeding rapidly."

"All three arms of the defense force are co-operating effectively," the communique said.

"At most points," it added, "a slight local resistance by Norwegian troops has ceased."

The communique stated also that German troops were advancing in Denmark without friction because Danish troops had been ordered by Denmark not to resist.

A second communique stated that German bombers Monday night had extensively damaged a British battleship and other vessels in a raid on Scapa Flow.

The first communique said: "The advance of German troops in Jutland toward the north and on the islands is progressing rapidly. The Danish government instructed Danish troops to offer resistance."

"The German and Danish commands this forenoon established mutual contacts."

EVACUATION JOB FACED BY U. S.

Washington, April 9 (AP)—The explosive spread of Europe's war to Scandinavia confronted the administration with three urgent problems today:

1. The safety of some 3,000 American nationals caught in the new theater of hostilities.

2. The question of a new presidential proclamation formally designating Norway—and perhaps Denmark—as a battlefield.

Flashes From the War Zone

Rome, April 9 (AP)—Italian authorities withheld comment today on Germany's lightning occupation of Norway and Denmark until they could study the reaction of the British-French allies. They indicated some surprise at the suddenness of the German action. It was understood by Premier Mussolini had been informed in advance of the plan of occupation but it was considered almost certain in foreign circles that he learned of it immediately when it went into effect.

The Hague, April 9 (AP)—The Netherlands announced today that no new periodic leaves for border and coast troops would be granted in the immediate future. The announcement followed a special session of the cabinet. Presumably the government ministers had been summoned to consider the new situation created by the German invasion of Norway and Denmark.

GETTYSBURG'S SCHOOL BOARD STUDIES BUDGET

A tentative, proposed budget for Gettysburg public schools for the school year of 1940-41 went under the scrutiny of members of the board of education Monday evening at the regular April meeting in the office of Superintendent L. C. Keefe at the high school building. The budget, which is similar to that under which the schools are operating this year, anticipates expenses of about $109,449.

The budget will be advertised and then brought up for final action on May 13 when the directors will fix the tax rate for next year and base the budget upon that rate. The directors went over the budget item by item Monday evening and each took a copy home with him. The budget was prepared by Superintendent Keefe.

The board directed Superintendent Keefe to advertise for supplies for the next school year.

Thanksgiving Day Fixed

Without formality of a record vote the board ordered the calendar for the next school year amended to show November 23, the last Thursday of the month, as Thanksgiving Day, although November 21 had been designated in the first approved draft of the school calendar. The pronouncement by Governor James that his proclamation will designate the old date as Thanksgiving day this year brought the change.

Permission will be sought to use St. James Lutheran church for the annual baccalaureate services for the Gettysburg high school seniors on the evening of June 2. The speaker has not yet been secured. June 3 is high school commencement night and the eighth grade commencement will follow on June 4.

Repairs to electrical work at the Meade school building were ordered on the basis of an estimate submitted by the H. and T. Electric company.

A request from the Gettysburg Baseball association that roofed bleachers be erected at the baseball diamond had to be turned down because the board has no money for that purpose although individual members agreed that such an improvement is needed.

Defer Action on Heating Plant

The directors heard E. M. Donohue, a representative of the Sarco company, Lancaster, and Milton Plank, Gettysburg plumber, explain recommended changes in the Lincoln school building heating plant. The cost of the proposed changes was estimated at about $300. Directors deferred action for further study.

The monthly report of the Gettysburg National bank, school district treasurer, showed disbursements of $8,819 last month and receipts of about $2,800, including $1,800 in tuition and $700 in taxes. The general fund balance at the end of the month was $23,239 with a $2,500 balance in the sinking fund. The monthly high school cafeteria report showed receipts of $198 and expenses of $191.29 for last month.

All members of the board attended with President Arthur E. Hutchinson presiding.

PUPILS OFFER 2 SHORT PLAYS

A fair-sized crowd attended the final meeting of the year of the Fairfield Parent-Teachers' association Monday evening in the Fairfield community building. Mrs. Ellmore H. Slaybaugh, the president, presided.

Two one-act plays were presented by the grammar school students who were in charge of the program. Ralph Neely, a pupil of the fourth grade, led the group in the Lord's prayer.

Casts for the plays follow: "Crash of the Air Mail"—Junior Weikert, Paul McGlaughlin, Russell Summers, Jay Brown, Dale Musselman, Rodney Harbaugh, Clyde Rohrbach, Ellis Shindeldecker, Wayne Shindeldecker, Bobby Sites and James Weikert; and "The Pickle Friend"—Betty Jane Kauffman, Ruthanna Kline, Virginia Landis, Betty Landis, Ruth Jean Musselman, Mary Chutz, Margaret Weikert, Joan Wentz, Arlene Rohrbach, Janet Musselman, Loraine Rohrbach, Doris Seiferd and Jane Reck.

The primary room, taught by Miss Mary Louise Scott, won the award for having the most parents in attendance. The same room also was the winner for the year's total attendance.

Mrs. William S. Culbertson, Charman, who was scheduled to speak, did not attend due to poor traveling conditions.

The executive committee, which will serve as the nominating committee, will report at the fall meeting.

Health Officer Is Transferred

Harrisburg, April 9 (AP)—D. E. McCauslin, health officer of Adams county, was transferred today to the state department's headquarters in the capitol as the first move in an educational program.

Dr. John J. Shaw, secretary of Health, said county health officers in other areas of the state would be brought here "from time to time for educational work."

"We think this will greatly build up our organization when the program gets under way."

The Adams county officer was the first to be selected because of the proximity and also "things are in such shape there that we can spare him for the present," the secretary said.

McCauslin's salary of $1,860 remains unchanged.

Property Transfers

Grant and Olive D. Corbin, Cumberland township, have sold to Robert E. and Helen M. Markle, Gettysburg, a lot at Grandview Terrace along the Biglerville road in Cumberland township.

E. J. and Anna V. Croft, Blain, Pa., have sold to Walter J. and Belva N. Lott, Huntingdon township, a 125-acre property in Huntingdon township.

Robert E. Hart sold to Leo J. and Helen C. Lawrence, all of McSherrystown, a lot along South street in that borough.

Oslo, Capital of Norway, Surrenders to Germany

Bulletins Nazis Also Invade Denmark; Ports Of Sweden Mined; Battle at Sea

London, April 9 (AP)—A British source said tonight that it "understands a naval action is in progress somewhere near the coast of Norway" between British and German forces.

Stockholm, April 9 (AP)—The city of Oslo, capital of Norway, surrendered to German forces at 4 p. m. (10 a. m. E.S.T.) today.

Dispatches reaching Stockholm said that the Norwegian police chief had resigned and that he was replaced by German officials.

North of Oslo Norwegian aircraft was reported to have shot down two German planes.

The Norwegian government moved to the lake village of Hamar, North of Oslo.

The Norwegian army was reported to be guarding a defense line between Oslo and Hamar to protect the new capital and to cover the mobilization of inland towns.

Fully half of the population was reported to have left Oslo before the city surrendered to German troops.

The Germans were landed from warships along the city's harbor.

The Swedish parliament was called into session for 8 p. m. (2 p. m. E.S.T.) tonight.

Stockholm received reports from Norway and Denmark with a serious calm. It was recognized as a black day. Norwegians here returned home as quickly as they could.

From northern Sweden it was reported that the German invasion of Norway met opposition, and that at least two German ships were sunk at Narvik, the northern port from which Germany has been shipping Swedish ore.

The Germans mounted machine-guns at all places they occupied.

The Danish warship Freja arrived in the Swedish harbor of Helsingborg at 1:30 p. m. (7:30 a. m. E.S.T.). Earlier in the morning 150 Danish soldiers who arrived by ferry were interned.

Oslo before the surrender reported that all roads from the town were blocked by German troops, who halted the withdrawal of civilians. Many had left before, however.

No bombs were dropped, Oslo reports said.

BRITISH NAVY TO AID NORWAY AGAINST REICH

London, April 9 (AP)—Britain's powerful navy is moving into the northern conflict to aid Norway against German invasion, Prime Minister Chamberlain told the house of commons today in a brief, lustily-cheered speech.

Chamberlain charged that Germany had premeditated the invasion of Norway and Denmark and he pledged the "full aid" of Britain and France to Norway.

"Powerful units of the navy are at sea," Chamberlain told the house, explaining that details must necessarily be kept secret.

Reports reached London by way of Paris that allied naval forces already were engaged with the Germans at various points along the Norwegian coast in a heavy storm.

Cites Planning

Chamberlain said it was plain that the German expedition to Scandinavia must have been underway before Britain mined Norwegian waters Monday, otherwise it could not have occupied such farway points at Trondheim, on Norway (Continued on Page Two)

Behind the News

General War Looms as Battlefield Is Opened

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign Affairs
Writer

The Anglo-French mine-field, sowed in neutral Norwegian waters, has blown up in Europe's face as was a foregone conclusion.

The result is the beginning of the general European war which the world has feared and which now may be expected to spread.

The break has come after a series of most extraordinary events. On Saturday Norwegian Foreign Minister Koht declared that any such interruption of shipping would drag his country into the war. Sunday the allies laid their mines and sat back to see what would happen. Monday night Koht's prediction came true.

Because the reaction in the mine-laying experiment was as certain as that blue litmus will turn red in acid, it must be assumed that the allies weren't surprised, to say the least.

Battlefield Opened

Nazidom today charges that "for months England and France have attempted to make a new battlefield out of Scandinavia." The allies have denied similar claims before, and will deny this.

However, the thing which matters is that a battlefield has been opened up there now. The important fact remaining to be disclosed is just how well set the allies and Germany have been to take advantage of the situation.

Germany has moved first, but it will be most surprising if the allies are slow in carrying out their promise "to extend full aid" to Norway, and to "fight the war in full association" with their new recruit.

We now shall get a chance to see the speed of Britain's new director (Continued on Page Two)

EVACUATION JOB FACED BY U. S. NAZIS WANT TO POLICE DANUBE

Washington, April 9 (AP)—The explosive spread of Europe's war to Scandinavia confronted the administration with three urgent problems today:

1. The safety of some 3,000 American nationals caught in the new theater of hostilities.

2. The question of a new presidential proclamation formally designating Norway — and perhaps Denmark (Continued on Page Two)

Belgrade, April 9 (AP)—The German government today, it was learned on high authority today, has demanded that Yugoslavia, Hungary, Bulgaria and Rumania accept German river police along the entire length of the Danube river to secure this vital supply route for Germany.

The demand was made after the German press accused Britain of plotting to dynamite the narrow Danube channel through the "iron gate" to cripple Germany's trans-

Flashes From the War Zone

Rome, April 9 (AP)—Italian authorities withheld comment today on Germany's lightning occupation of Norway and Denmark until they could study the reaction of the British-French allies. They indicated some surprise at the suddenness of the German action. It was undetermined if Premier Mussolini had been informed in advance of the plan of occupation but it was considered almost certain in foreign circles that he learned of it immediately when it went into effect.

Berlin, April 9 (AP)—An official German news agency dispatch from Copenhagen said that quiet prevailed today in the Danish capital. The D.N.B. report said that life was normal, that newspapers were continuing publication and that radio broadcasting was undisturbed.

The Hague, April 9 (AP)—The Netherlands announced today that no new periodic leaves for border and coast troops would be granted in the immediate future. The announcement followed a special session of the cabinet. Presumably the government ministers had been summoned to consider the new situation created by the German invasion of Norway and Denmark.

Brussels, April 9 (AP)—Belgium's frontiers remained quiet today but this capital city buzzed with news of the German invasion of Norway and Denmark. Defense Minister General Henri Denis conferred with (Continued on Second Page)

Moss, 35 miles south of Oslo, at a point where the Oslo fjord narrows. From there they marched against the capital.

Many planes were seen flying in the direction of Oslo.

Denmark Yields

London, April 9 (AP)—Germany invaded neutral Norway and Denmark today in a lightning double-stroke which she said was for their "protection" against the British-French allies.

Denmark apparently yielded without resistance but Norway elected to fight. The Norwegian government moved from assaulted Oslo, ordered full mobilization and got an immediate allied guarantee of full aid.

Swedish iron ore, moving down the Norwegian coastal waters to Germany, was the smouldering fuse which set off the bombshell and gave the allies at last their long-sought flanking position against Germany.

The German onslaught against the two Scandinavian nations early today probably came while British patrol ships were fighting a heavy fleet action with German navy units.

The British admiralty refused to comment on renewed reports that such a big engagement had taken place or was still in progress, but responsible quarters felt that the German occupation was impossible unless the British fleet was being kept busy elsewhere.

Warships Patrol Coast

British warships were known to have been patrolling the Norwegian coast, and 125 German naval vessels, ranging from small boats to heavy cruisers, were sighted in the Skagerrak Monday.

The German radio announced the Danish government has decided to accept "German protection" in view of prevailing conditions. The broadcast was heard here by Reuters news agency.

Reports from a variety of sources including the Oslo radio; the German news agency, D.N.B.; and Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, United States minister to Norway; pieced together this stirring list of events:

German troops simultaneously moved northward across the Danish border and landed at Copenhagen, taking over that city's citadel and radio station. There were no reports of opposition as all Denmark fell into German hands.

Rich Warships Repelled

Four German warships tried to force the Oslo fjord, water entrance to the Norwegian capital, and were at first repelled by shore batteries. Another attempt was made by a single ship which ran aground.

Norwegian planes battled German air raiders overhead while Oslo was under an air raid alarm throughout the morning.

German troops landed on the southern coast while German military and naval units seized the strategic ports of Vallo, Bergen, Trondheim and Narvik. Christian-sand was bombarded by German warships and planes. Prognosis was bombed from the air about noon.

The Norwegian government called all citizens to the colors, ordered removal of civilians from Oslo within two days, and itself fled to Hamar, 60 miles north of Oslo.

Mrs. Harriman took over the duties of the British and French ministers to Norway, the reasons for this not being made clear.

Germany announced she had mined all the coastal waters, including ports of Sweden.

STOCK REPORT

New York, April 9 (AP)—A burst of buying in war stocks put up these issues: 1 to more than 4 points in today's market but many groups failed to trail along. The ticker tape was a minute late for a while after the opening. The pace then slowed as top prices were shaded. There was another comeback near midday, although utilities, rails, oils and motors were mostly under water.

way's northern coast, as reported. German forces have landed at Bergen, western Norwegian port, Chamberlain told the house.

Opposition leaders endorsed the government's action to aid Norway, calling for decisive and speedy action that would, as liberal Sir Archibald Sinclair expressed it, "prevent another free nation from being brought under the Nazi iron heel."

Asked whether Britain proposed to give aid to Denmark, Chamberlain said: "I cannot add anything to the statement I have made."

He said that "no suggestion has yet been made about a meeting of the League of Nations."

No Danish Information

"First things must come first," he said. "There are other actions that will be more effective than summoning the league."

Chamberlain said he had no information regarding the fate of the Danish government and the Danish royal family.

As Chamberlain rose to make his statement the Swedish and Yugoslav ministers arrived in the diplomatic gallery.

The house shouted down its only communist member, William Gallacher, who suggested that the government should be changed to get a cabinet which would "save the young men and bring the war to a speedy end instead of concerning itself with the spread of war."

Geoffrey Mander, opposition liberal, asked Chamberlain for information on the reported German occupation of Bergen and Narvik, western Norwegian ports. Narvik, far to the north, is the port from which Germany has been shipping Swedish iron ore through Norwegian territorial waters.

Germans at Bergen

"It is a very tragic and remarkable thing that the expedition has taken place while the British fleet held the seas," said Mander. "No doubt some explanation will be forthcoming."

The members shouted him down with cries of "order!"

Chamberlain said that the Germans had landed at Bergen but that it was doubtful whether they had landed at Narvik.

"I am sure," said the prime minister, "that the house will wish to reserve its judgment without further information and will not wish to make criticisms of the navy."

Chamberlain said that the German plans for invasion of Norway and Denmark were "made and put into operation" long before Monday's news-laying.

"Otherwise some of the troops which have landed in Norway already would not have been there," Chamberlain declared.

SUSQUEHANNA UP AGAIN AFTER DAY-LONG RAIN

(By the Associated Press)

An all-day rain throughout the entire basin sent the third flood crest in nine days surging down the stricken Susquehanna river valley today.

Forecasters predicted, however, that the high water would be well under the marks set during last week's inundations and would exceed flood stage only at Wilkes-Barre and Towanda.

E. A. Hoffman, Red Cross flood consultant, forecast a 25-foot crest at Wilkes-Barre by 6 p. m. today. That would be three feet above flood stage and five and one foot respectively under the two previous crests. The stage at 11 o'clock Monday night was 20.3.

At Towanda, up the North branch, observers expected a 10-foot crest—three above flood stage. The river had reached 16.56 at 1 a. m. and was going up at the rate of 2 of a foot an hour.

Although G. Albert Stewart, secretary of Forests and Waters, said "we aren't expecting any trouble," river communities that were just getting back to normal prepared for a new emergency.

The flood emergency headquarters at Harrisburg went on 24-hour duty again. The disaster committee of the American Red Cross at Wilkes-Barre, which was to have disbanded Monday, stayed on duty.

A break in a temporary dike at Edwardsville, near Wilkes-Barre, which flooded most of the Kingston area last week, has been repaired by army engineers and was expected to protect that community from another inundation.

War to Spread

There is small chance that the war won't spread, now that it is aflame in the north. Sweden probably will be involved shortly. The Netherlands is in the path of the avalanche. There will be nothing easier than for Belgium to get caught.

At this moment you would be reckless to give a dime for Rumania's chances of safety, and this means that the whole Balkan peninsula is in danger. Now that the lid is off, Germany most certainly will make sure of Rumania's oil supplies, which are vital to the reich.

Russia and Italy Important

The position of Russia and Italy are, of course, of vast moment. Neither has indicated its abandonment of non-belligerency, nor is either likely to, pending a clarification of the situation.

The fiction that the mere wish and effort of a European state to remain neutral can make it so has been disposed of finally by the events of the past two days — the mine-laying and the German occupations.

Norway charges an open breach of international law against the allies for laying the mines. England and France admitted that this action wouldn't be lawful in ordinary circumstances but claimed that "illegal" German acts justified these counter-measures.

Each Had Own Law

Norway was reported as shocked by the developments. Still, I don't believe the allied action came as such a great shock to most of Europe, since their naive explanation, so much favored by schoolboys in excusing adventures out of bounds, merely called attention to a situation which had existed since the beginning of the war.

This was that all the belligerents had been "rolling their own" when it came to international law. The law as it had been known flew out of the window when the war came in at the door. Each combatant had more or less been making his own brand of law to fit the position as he had seen it.

However, most people have become accustomed to this situation. The World war saw virtually all the existing rules broken and all the rights of neutrals violated.

The present war thus far has been largely economic, with both sides battling for the favor of the neutrals. Every nation in Europe, big and little, has been involved in this economic chicanery.

The truth is that neutrality has been almost impossible under the circumstances. Whether they have wanted to or not, most of the "neutrals" of Europe in one way or another have had their rocks sunk in this war.

Third Parties Suffer

The plunging of Norway and Denmark into the conflict is indeed shocking. But we must be prepared to accept the unalterable fact that when great empires are in a life and death struggle they are not going to stand on ceremony in trying to preserve themselves and defeat the enemy. That is tough on third parties, but war has no conscience and that's the way it goes.

The position of the United States naturally becomes more delicate with the spread of the war. Because of the increased dangers, this is the moment when Americans should safeguard their neutrality if ever they did. It is at times like this that some sensational incident may cause a public to stampede — and there are plenty of people in Europe who want to see us in the conflict.

Envoy Notifies U. S.

The first official word of the reich's swift hammer blows on the Scandinavian flank reached the capital shortly after midnight from Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, United States minister to Norway.

Announcing the receipt of advices from Mrs. Harriman, the State department said:

"The American minister to Oslo, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, telegraphed to the Department of State tonight that the foreign minister has informed her that the Norwegians fired on four German warships coming up Oslo fjord and that Norway is at war with Germany."

Americans Quit Oslo

Washington, April 9 (AP)—The State department heard from Oslo today that wives and children of American foreign service officers left the Norwegian capital for points inland this morning while German airplanes circled over the city and Norwegian anti-aircraft batteries sought to drive the invaders off.

2 U. S. Ships at Norway

New York, April 9 (AP)—At least two American ships are in the Scandinavian war zone.

They are the new $2,000,000 Flying Fish, built by the United States Maritime commission for the Moore-Cormack line, now at Bergen on her maiden voyage and the same company's Mormacsea, a 4,055-ton freighter.

OSLO, CAPITAL OF NORWAY, IS TAKEN BY NAZIS

Moss, 35 miles south of Oslo, at a point were Oslo fjord narrows. From there they marched against the capital.

Many planes were seen flying in the direction of Oslo.

Denmark Yields
London, April 9 (AP)—Germany invaded neutral Norway and Denmark today in a lightning double-stroke which she said was for their "protection" against the British-French allies.

Denmark apparently yielded without resistance but Norway elected to fight. The Norwegian government moved from assaulted Oslo, ordered full mobilization and got an immediate allied guarantee of full aid.

Swedish iron ore, moving down the Norwegian coastal waters to Germany, was the smouldering fuse which set off the bombshell and gave the allies at last their long-sought flanking position against Germany.

The German onslaught against the two Scandinavian nations early today probably came while British patrol ships were fighting a heavy fleet action with German navy units.

The British admiralty refused to comment on renewed reports that such a big engagement had taken place or was still in progress, but responsible quarters felt that the German occupation was impossible unless the British fleet was being kept busy elsewhere.

Warships Patrol Coast
British warships were known to have been patrolling the Norwegian coast, and 125 German naval vessels, ranging from small boats to heavy cruisers, were sighted in the Skagerrak Monday.

The German radio announced the Danish government has decided to accept "German protection" in view of prevailing conditions. The broadcast was heard here by Reuters news agency.

Reports from a variety of sources including the Oslo radio, the German news agency, D.N.B., and Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, United States minister to Norway, placed together this stirring list of events:

German troops simultaneously moved northward across the Danish border and landed at Copenhagen, taking over that city's citadel and radio station. There were no reports of opposition as all Denmark fell into German hands.

Reich Warships Repelled
Four German warships tried to force the Oslo fjord, water entrance to the Norwegian capital, and were at first repelled by shore batteries. Another attempt was made by a single ship which ran aground.

Norwegian planes battled German air raiders overhead while Oslo was under an air raid alarm throughout the morning.

German troops landed on the southern coast while German military and naval units seized the strategic ports of Vallo, Bergen, Trondheim and Narvik. Christian-sand was bombed by German warships and planes. Prossgrunn was bombed from the air about noon.

The Norwegian government called all citizens to the colors, ordered removal of civilians from Oslo within two days, and itself fled to Hamar, 60 miles north of Oslo.

Mrs. Harriman took over the duties of the British and French ministers to Norway, the reasons for this not being made clear.

Germany announced she had mined all the coastal waters, including ports of Sweden.

103-Day Quarantine Ends at Orphanage

Quincy, Pa., April 9 (AP)—Youngsters at the United Brethren orphanage in this Franklin county town frolicked about the campus today, happy to be free at last of a scarlet fever quarantine imposed last December.

Thirty-three children and one adult at the orphanage were stricken at various times, extending the quarantine for a total of 103 days. As students could not go to the high school during that period, teachers brought lessons to the orphanage. J. H. Michaels, county health officer, lifted the quarantine after a final inspection.

Opposition leaders endorsed the government's action to aid Norway, calling for decisive and speedy action that would, as liberal Sir Archibald Sinclair expressed it, "prevent another free nation from being brought under the Nazi iron heel." Asked whether Britain proposed to give aid to Denmark, Chamberlain said: "I cannot add anything to the statement I have made."

He said that "no suggestion has yet been made about a meeting of the League of Nations."

No Danish Intervention
"First things must come first," he said. "There are other actions that will be more effective than summoning the league."

Chamberlain said he had no information regarding the fate of the Danish government and the Danish royal family.

As Chamberlain rose to make his statement the Swedish and Yugoslav ministers arrived in the diplomatic gallery.

The house shouted down its only communist member, William Gallacher, who suggested that the government should be changed to get a cabinet which would "save the young men and bring the war to a speedy end instead of concerning itself with the spread of war."

Geoffrey Mander, opposition liberal, asked Chamberlain for information on the reported German occupation of Bergen and Narvik, western Norwegian ports. Narvik, far to the north, is the port from which Germany has been shipping Swedish iron ore through Norwegian territorial waters.

Germans at Bergen
"It is a very tragic and remarkable thing that the expedition has taken place while the British fleet held the seas," said Mander. "No doubt some explanation will be forthcoming."

The members shouted him down with cries of "order!" Chamberlain said that the Germans had landed at Bergen but that it was doubtful whether they had landed at Narvik.

"I am sure," said the prime minister, "that the house will wish to reserve its judgment without further information and will not wish to make criticisms of the navy."

Chamberlain said that the German plans for invasion of Norway and Denmark were "made and put into operation" long before Monday's mine-laying.

"Otherwise some of the troops which have landed in Norway already would not have been there," Chamberlain declared.

SUSQUEHANNA UP AGAIN AFTER DAY-LONG RAIN

(By the Associated Press)
An all-day rain throughout the entire basin sent the third flood crest in nine days surging down the stricken Susquehanna river valley today.

Forecasters predicted, however, that the high water would be well under the marks set during last week's inundations and would exceed flood stage only at Wilkes-Barre and Towanda.

E. A. Hoffman, Red Cross flood consultant, forecast a 25-foot crest at Wilkes-Barre by 6 p. m. today. That would be three feet above flood stage and five and one foot respectively under the two previous crests. The stage at 11 o'clock Monday night was 20.3.

At Towanda, up the North branch, observers expected a 19-foot crest—three above flood stage. The river had reached 16.56 at 1 a. m. and was going up at the rate of .2 of a foot an hour.

Although G. Albert Stewart, secretary of Forests and Waters, said "we aren't expecting any trouble," river communities that were just getting back to normal prepared for a new emergency.

The flood emergency headquarters at Harrisburg went on 24-hour duty again. The disaster committee of the American Red Cross at Wilkes-Barre, which was to have disbanded Monday, stayed on duty.

A break in a temporary dike at Edwardsville, near Wilkes-Barre, which flooded most of the Kingston area last week, has been repaired by army engineers and was expected to protect that community from another inundation.

Foreign Minister Paul Henri Spaak and a military spokesman said Belgium's army was ready, as always, to meet any attack.

Belgrade, April 9 (AP)—The German government, it was learned on high authority today, has demanded that Yugoslavia, Hungary, Bulgaria and Rumania accept German river police along the entire length of the Danube river to secure this vital supply route for Germany.

London, April 9 (AP)—The admiralty announced today that the British merchant shipping loss from German action during the past week was only one ship, the 208-ton steam trawler Gorspen. It was bombed. This, the admiralty said, represented the lowest British loss since the outbreak of the war.

Moscow, April 9 (AP)—Announcement of the German invasion of Norway and Denmark was withheld today in Russia. Prior to the new German stroke, however, the communist party newspaper Pravda published an accusation that the allies were trying to plunge Scandinavia into war. Moscow was keeping close watch of Scandinavian developments since they are important particularly to her northwest frontier adjoining Finland. The new developments came as Russia lifted her blockade of the Gulf of Finland, a measure instituted during her war with the Finns.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, April 9 (AP).—If Wes Ierrell fails to stick with the Dodgers, he'll turn pro and make the next swing of the winter circuit.

A group of rich Boston guys have raised a pool of $50,000 and will try to get Beantown back in the National football league at this week's meeting. Trainers of Derby candidates look for an unusually small starting field this year—bad weather has played the city dickens with training. The St. Albans golf club is tossing a testimonial dinner for Babe Ruth April 20.

Good-old-days dept. — Nowadays when two major league clubs go barnstorming, the players eat together, play cards together and fraternize generally. But back in 1917 the feud between the Louisa Giants and Tigers became so bitter they had to put the baggage car between the clubs' sleepers to prevent fights.

Today's guest star.—L. H. Gregory, Portland, Oregonian. "Slip Matigan, the ousted St. Mary's coach, has gained 13 pounds since the blow fell. That is almost one pound per $1,000 of the $14,000 due on his abrogated contract; this $11,000 being the real reason Slip didn't go to Loyola."

When the cards gave infielder Jack Gourd a one-way ticket to Columbus he became so infuriated he almost wrecked the clubhouse. Martin Burke, the old New Orleans heavyweight, has succeeded Jimmy Erwin as the fight promoter down in Birmingham. If that return clash between Greg Rice and Talso make it closed for Boston, it will be held outdoors and not in the Boston Garden. Billy Parlow, who half backed at Alabama under Wallace Wade, is running for congress from the sixth Alabama district. Add Holy Cross to the schools which will drop the football huddle next season. Old Grover Cleveland Alexander advertises in "Sporting News": "What have you to offer?"

No go, either.—On April 1 an insurance inspector visited the Columbia (South Carolina) ball park. He O.K'd the left field bleachers, but condemned the right field patch. Next day the left field stands collapsed, injuring three.

Leads with chin.—Gabby Hartnett, who works for a chewing gum manufacturer, has stuck out his chin sure enough this time. He is trying his darndest to learn to chew tobacco.

LOOKING AROUND

Gettysburg's softball league this season should be bigger and better than ever. Practically all of the teams will have the backing of local merchants and plans are afoot for most of the teams to have uniforms. It is probable there will be as many as 10 teams entered in the league. A meeting to organize the circuit will be held this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Acadia club room, rear of Hotel Gettysburg.

Much improvement is expected by the Gettysburg college baseball team in the near future. Lack of sufficient conditioning drills took its toll in the first two games when opponents collected 20 runs while the Bullets committed a total of 10 errors. Coach Ira Plank has the nucleus of a good team which needs only capable pitching to win its share of games. On Saturday the Bullets met Lebanon Valley here in the first league game. Wally Kane, Arentsville, hard hitting freshman outfielder, will be eligible for this game and is expected to be seen in an outfield position.

Coach John Glenn's Gettysburg college tennis team opens its season here Saturday, afternoon against Lehigh. Prospects are good for a successful Bullet campaign. Remaining from last year's squad are Clint Hendrickson, Tahlor Smith, Dick Henry, Quentin Garman and Fred Coleman. Others expected to make strong bids for varsity posts are Bill Waltemyer, Ed Fischer, Eddie Myers and Walter Kuhns.

portation of oil, foodstuffs and raw materials from southeastern Europe. Rumanian police seized British barges loaded with dynamite, and the British said that explosives were to have been used to blow up British and French Danube vessels in the event Germany invaded Rumania.

It was learned that Hungary, Yugoslavia and Rumania previously had "tentatively" rejected the German demands. Then they were made a second time.

Bulgaria was understood reliably to have agreed and it was reported that German river police already were patrolling the Bulgarian Danube borders.

Diplomatic quarters here freely expressed the belief that the German news agency here as well as the Berlin foreign office had seized upon the reports of seizure of the British explosives as the basis for the renewed demands for a German patrol of the Danube.

These sources also believed the demand was a possible forerunner of a German move into southeastern Europe to obtain Rumania's oil and Yugoslavia's copper as well as vast raw materials available in Bulgaria and Hungary.

The little nations of southeastern Europe were thrown into near panic by news of the German occupation of Norway and Denmark which was interpreted in Balkan quarters to mean that the war will soon be extended throughout the continent.

250,000 Soldiers
Full War Strength
Of Denmark, Norway
(By the Associated Press)
The combined forces of Denmark
and Norway, even if at full war strength, are a mere 250,000 men against the military might of the German reich.
Dupuy's late work on the armies
and armaments of the world notes
that Denmark "is dominated by adjacent Germany and may easily be overrun by her neighbor x x x
The Scandinavian nations hold the key to the Baltic sea, entrance to which only can be effected through the Skagerrak and Kattegat, except for the Kiel canal, in German territory."
Denmark's army comprises three divisions with fortress troops, with war strength of 181,000 and peace strength of 11,000. Her air force of 90 ships is considered entirely negligible. Her navy consists of two antiquated coast defense battleships, one cruiser-mine-layer, 20
torpedo boats and 13 submarines.
Norway's army, of nine brigades,
a battalion of artillery and some fortress troops, has a war strength of 90,000, peace strength of 30,000
and her air force is 100 planes.
The Norwegian navy consists of four coast defense battleships, eight cruisers, nine submarines and a number of smaller craft.
The latest figures on area and population:

Denmark	16,575	3,700,000
Norway	124,566	2,922,000

High Water—Narrow Escape: On Friday morning, Mr. George Warner and his son, John, started with horse and wagon to buy some hogs.
In attempting to cross Rock creek
at Lott's fording about four miles
below town on the Taneytown road,
they made a narrow escape from drowning. The creek was very high,
and before getting very far from
bank the water covered the horse.
In trying to turn, the wagon upset,
and both of the occupants were thrown out—John, who is an expert swimmer tried to detach the horse
but failed. He then swam ashore and helped to save his father. George floated down the stream and was rescued by a rope, a full quarter
of a mile below the scene of the accident. The current was so strong that fifteen dollars which were in his pocket were washed out and a ring was torn from his finger. The horse was drowned and it with the wagon was found a long distance down the stream.

The loss is a severe one and George has the sympathy of the community.

Chapter Five
Mac's Champion
What Mac had said to Brenda had
been innocent enough in intent,
merely that Hugh Saltus might consent to act as critic, collaborator, or illustrator, or all three, if he were
properly approached on the subject.
Mac had regarded the idea as a positive inspiration. What writers'
magazines dub "the genesis" of it
had descended on him at the sight of
the usually unapproachable cartoon-
ist conversing so affably with Brenda.
Mac himself knew what it was to
break ground in new fields of literary
endeavor. He had remorseful recollection of the mocking way he had received the little newcomer's con-
fidences about her work that first
day. Adding these two facts together he arrived at a very satisfactory and ambitious four which he presented to Brenda without delay.
"Thank you," she said coldly.
"You are too kind!"
He realized unhappily that she
meant just that.
"But for 'kind' read 'officious,'" he
told himself, backing swiftly away
and doing his best to lose himself
among the guests. "She takes her
work—golly! I suppose she thinks Saltus would be honored by a private
view of one of her manuscripts!"
In this, however, he did Brenda
an injustice. Her sensitiveness toward her writing had become almost
an obsession with her. Aunt Anne
had discouraged it; older writers had
smiled indulgently at her ambitious
plans. Her interviews with editors
have already been described. All this opposition had had the natural
effect of making her more determined than ever to succeed.
She still seethed with wrath when
she remembered Mac's blithe description of her imaginary labors.
And now, just when she was congratulating herself that she had
found a place where people, if somewhat queer and given to minding
their neighbors' business as well as
their own, were at least tolerant,
Dion MacKelvey must needs come
skating across the floor to suggest
ironically (or so she believed) an impossible partnership between herself and the famous artist. It was much too much!

"This Mac person is going to be a real nuisance if I don't suppress
him," she told herself, smiling her sweetest as she let Dr. Wilson tell
her about an epidemic of pink eye
that had swept The Street nineteen
years before. "Why doesn't he marry
his Isobel and be content with her?
Anyone can see she's mad about him.
Eric Mason now is another story;
too absorbed in his own concerns to
do more than cast flirtatious glances about now and then. I wonder . . .
The dimples dipped so deeply that
the old doctor stopped in the middle
of a sentence, staring at her appre-
ciatively. "No, you're to behave yourself!" her thoughts ran on admon-ishingly. "You're here to work, and
for no other reason." Again the doctor was bewildered by her change
of expression. She drew down the corners of her mouth, wrinkled her
smooth forehead warningly.
"Did you say she's studying to be
an actress, my dear?" the old man
asked his daughter as they made
their way home. "I should think
she might make a very excellent
one!"
"No, a writer." The brief answer
was given disapprovingly. Miss Wilson had literary aspirations herself.
She wrote poems which invariably
began with "Hail!" and contained
such beautiful words as "nude" and
"monody"; and at least every fifth

Today's Talk
By George Matthew Adams
EXCITEMENT
EXCITEMENT, within reason, is a splendid stimulant. People who never get excited miss a great experience. Take the example of the hard working actor finally being given a lead part in a play, or that of a writer, who has done good work over a long period, but producing a book that suddenly, and unexpectedly, becomes a first seller!
The excitement over a carefully planned vacation, or trip to a foreign land, is half the happiness of the trip itself. And then there are the attendant excitements that forever cluster about every new sight
or experience.
There is a type of minor excitement about which the outer world knows little — that excitement that feeds upon beauty and that lifts one spiritually into hours of supreme ecstasy.
I once read a very exciting story about a bank clerk who stole money
from his bank and disappeared, going to a far country and spending that money as though he were its wealthy owner. For weeks he lived in a world of adventure in which many of his dreams appeared real. Then he was caught. He confessed and gave as his reason for this crime against society, and himself, that his long years of confinement in the bank had numbed his spirit of fun and adventure — and that he wanted excitement. Incidentally, he confessed that this kind of excitement was not worth what it cost!
It is interesting to note the type people who will stop to see a dog fight, or a bitter argument upon the street. We all crave excitement and to appease it we often take the means of looking upon moments of excitement in which others are involved.
Excitement often runs wild in a riot of joy, as for instance when peace is signed between nations long at war. Or after the end of a closely contested athletic contest.
Never be afraid to get excited. Excitement has cleansing qualities that clear the mind and give new vigor to the body. Many people need excitement to wake them up — to open their eyes to what is going on in the world. People who excite easily are not to be looked down upon, but to be envied. They have spirit and are usually good leaders so long as they keep themselves under control.
You are lucky if you meet with emergencies that cause you to become excited! Make the most of them.

Little Spitfire
By JEAN RANDALL
YESTERDAY: Because Brenda
wants to meet the outcast, Hugh Saltus attends the reception.
Everyone on The Street is cordial
to Brenda, and she reciprocates
this friendliness.

one ended with "receive this from
my hand!" It was very sad for her
that all the poems came back with neatly printed rejection slips. Ridiculous to think a child like that
can write!
This, Brenda soon discovered, was
more or less the opinion of The Street. As time went on and she grew to know intimately the ten
families which comprised the neighborhood, she was chagrined to discover that only Hugh Saltus and the Abernathy twins sympathized at all
with her ambitions. And the Abernathy twins did not count, since
everyone on principle frowned upon
their opinions.
They were, as they themselves
confessed, a scatterbrained pair: Alaine and Abner ("and what can
you expect of people with names like
that?"). They lived in the old Abernathy house, "surrounded by law
and order," to quote them again.
By this they meant that on one side
dwelt old Judge Harper who kept a grand or less watchful eye on the misdoings of his former partner,
and on the other, Miss Judith Or-
mond, now in her seventy-sixth year
but nonetheless alert and energetic,
directed the gaze of two singularly
strong optics on the activities of her
young neighbors.
"Mac's Top"
Miss Ormond had been a schoolteacher in her day, and her day had been a long one. When she had been retired upon reaching the age limit
her fury knew no bounds. The Street
resounded for weeks to the echoes
of her fulminations against the school board. Finally she settled down to a task which was never
neglected merely because it had been
self-imposed: the guardianship of
the morals, manners and general
activities of the young people on The Shortest Street.
"She can't be bluff, fooled, or outwitted," Isobel Burke told Brenda
mournfully. "We've all tried it, you may be sure. Once Eric and I left
the car two blocks from here and
slipped in the back way. She telephoned Adelaide before breakfast
to say I'd got a ticket for overnight
parking. Mac usually adopts a simple system: he calls her up just
before he starts out and tells her
where he is going, and when he expects to be back, and what route he intends to follow. He says it saves
them both wear and tear on the
nervous system."
"Isobel, you're joking!"
The red-haired girl said grimly:
"Am I? Wait till you've dwelt
among us a little longer! Wait till
you go to a dance with Eric and
don't get home until after three in the morning! The Ormond will call and inquire — ever so sweetly! —
ask if you caught cold coming in so
late!"
"Why with Eric?" Brenda was diverted. "You always mention Eric
as a possible cavalier on social occasions. How about the other men
in the neighborhood?"
"Isobel shrugged. "There's Hugh Saltus—you know about him! A married man and therefore taboo as an escort." As Abernathy's loads of fun but he's so devoted to Alaine
they're rarely separated. That leaves
only Mac and Eric—which leaves
only Eric."
Brenda inquired carelessly: "Anything the matter with Mac—as a companion, I mean?"
An expression she had seen several
times on the other girl's face shad-
dowed it now.
"Mac is—" Isobel began, checked
herself and swallowed. "Mac's tips, Brenda," she said, quickly. "Don't make any mistake about that! And then as Brenda did not reply, she
went on: "He's terribly ambitious,
for one thing; all wrapped up in his
work. He does enough for two men.
For another—" Again she paused.
The younger girl looked at her in
surprised question.

STATE BAR WILL STUDY ACT FOR
VOTE ON JUDGES
Harrisburg, April 8 (AP) — An
act to elect judges of the state on
a non-partisan basis has been drawn
for consideration by the Pennsylvania Bar association at its annual convention in Bedford this June.
The legislation is intended to "free
the courts as much as possible from
political influence," the association's
committee on judicial council, which drafted it, said today. The committee is headed by Forrest G. Moorhead, of Beaver county.
It would be an amendment to the
elections code of 1937, thereby avoiding the necessity of a constitutional amendment.
The act would require that candidates for the bench be listed on a
non-partisan ballot.
Under its terms an elected judge
could seek re-election without opposition by announcing his candidacy at least 70 days before the primary. The act says:
"When a judge required to be learned in the law who is not prohibited by law to succeed himself
and who is serving a term to which he has been elected has filed such nomination petition, no other person may
file a nomination petition as candidate in opposition to the incumbent."

Provide Open Contest
In cases where an elected judge
declines to run again, or where an
appointed judge seeks an elective
term, it would be an open contest
for all candidates who file petitions
at least 40 days before the primary.
The act would allow voters to
write in the name of a candidate if
they wished to vote against a judge
who kept other names off the ballot
by announcing his candidacy for re-election.
The candidate who received more
than one-half the total votes cast
in his particular contest — where
there was primary opposition —
would be the sole nominee for that office.
The ballot for judges as prescribed
in the act would be called "official
non-partisan primary judicial ballot." The names of the candidates
would be printed without party affiliation. Sitting judges would be listed with their title of "judge" preceding the name.
It would be a paper ballot and
"shall not be placed upon an election machine in the form of ballot
labels, either at the primary or general election."

Today's Talk

—By George Matthew Adams—

EXCITEMENT

EXCITEMENT, within reason, is a splendid stimulant. People who never get excited miss a great experience. Take the example of the hard working actor finally being given a lead part in a play, or that of a writer, who has done good work over a long period, but producing a book that suddenly, and unexpectedly, becomes a first seller!

The excitement over a carefully planned vacation, or trip to a foreign land, is half the happiness of the trip itself. And then there are
the attendant excitements that forever cluster about every new sight
or experience.

There is a type of inner excitement about which the outer world
knows little — that excitement that feeds upon beauty and that lifts one
spiritually into hours of supreme ecstasy.

I once read a very exciting story about a bank clerk who stole money
from his bank and disappeared, going to a far country and spending
that money as though he were its wealthy owner. For weeks he lived in a world of adventure in which many of his dreams appeared real. Then he was caught. He confessed and gave as his reason for this crime against society, and himself, that his long years of confinement in the bank had numbed his spirit of fun and adventure — and that he wanted excitement. Incidentally, he confessed that this kind of excitement was not worth what it cost!

It is interesting to note the type people who will stop to see a dog fight, or a litter argument upon the street. We all crave excitement and to appease it we often take the means of looking upon moments of excitement in which others are involved.

Excitement often runs wild in a riot of joy, as for instance when peace is signed between nations long at war. Or after the end of a closely contested athletic contest.

Never be afraid to get excited. Excitement has cleansing qualities that clear the mind and give new vigor to the body. Many people need excitement to wake them up — to open their eyes to what is going on in the world. People who excite easily are not to be looked down upon,
but to be envied. They have spirit and are usually good leaders so long as they keep themselves under control.

You are lucky if you meet with emergencies that cause you to become excited! Make the most of them.

Little Spitfire

—By JEAN RANDALL—

wants to meet the outcast, Hugh
Saltus attends the reception.
Everyone on The Street is cordial
to Brenda, and she reciprocates
this friendliness.

Chapter Five

Mac's Champion

What Mac had said to Brenda had
been innocent enough in intent;
merely that Hugh Saltus might con-
sent to act as critic, collaborator, or
properly approached on the subject.

Mac had regarded the idea as a positive inspiration. What writers'
magazines dub "the genesis" of it
had descended on him at the sight of
the usually unapproachable cartoon-
ist conversing so affably with Brenda.
Mac himself knew what it was to
break ground in new fields of literary
endeavor. He had remorseful recollection of the mocking way he had
received the little newcomer's con-
fidences about her work that first
day. Adding these two facts together he arrived at a very satis-
factory and ambitious four which
he presented to Brenda without delay.

"Thank you," she said coldly.
"You are too kind!"

He realized unhappily that she
meant just that.

"But for 'kind' read 'officious,'" he
told himself, backing swiftly away
and doing his best to lose himself
among the guests. "She takes herself seriously, this gal does; and her work—golly! I suppose she thinks
view of one of her manuscripts!"

In this, however, he did Brenda
an injustice. Her sensitiveness toward her writing had become almost
an obsession with her. Aunt Anne
had discouraged it; older writers had
smiled indulgently at her ambitious
plans. Her interviews with editors
have already been described. All this
opposition had had the natural
effect of making her more determined than ever to succeed.

She still seethed with wrath when
she remembered Mac's blithe description of her imaginary labors.
And now, just when she was con-
gratulating herself that she had
found a place where people, if some-
what queer and given to minding
their neighbors' business as well as
their own, were at least tolerant,
Dion MacKelvey must needs come
skating across the floor to suggest
ironically (or so she believed) an impossible partnership between herself and the famous artist. It was much too much!

"This Mac person is going to be
a real nuisance if I don't suppress
him," she told herself, smiling her
sweetest as she let Dr. Wilson tell
her about an epidemic of pink eye
that had swept The Street nineteen
years before. "Why doesn't he marry
his Isobel and be content with her?
Anyone can see she's mad about him.
Eric Mason now is another story;
too absorbed in his own concerns to
do more than cast furtive glances
about now and then. I wonder . . ."

The dimples dipped so deeply that
the old doctor stopped in the middle
of a sentence, staring at her appre-
ciatively. "No, you're to behave your-
self!" her thoughts ran on admon-
ishingly. "You're here to work, and
for no other reason." Again the
doctor was bewildered by her change
of expression. She drew down the
corners of her mouth, wrinkled her
smooth forehead warningly.

"Did you say she's studying to be
an actress, my dear?" the old man
asked his daughter as they made
their way home. "I should think
she might make a very excellent
one!"

"No, a writer." The brief answer
was given disapprovingly. Miss Wilson had literary aspirations herself.
She wrote poems which invariably
began with "Hail!" and contained
such beautiful words as "mine" and
"monody," and at least every fifth

one ended with "receive this from
my hand!" It was very sad for her
that all the poems came back with neatly printed rejection slips. Ridiculous to think a child like that
can write!

This, Brenda soon discovered, was
more or less the opinion of The Street. As time went on and she
grew to know intimately the ten
families which comprised the neighborhood, she was chagrined to discover that only Hugh Saltus and the Abernathy twins sympathized at all
with her ambitions. And the Abernathy twins did not count, since
everyone on principle frowned upon
their opinions.

They were, as they themselves
confessed, a scatterbrained pair:
Alaine and Abner ("and what can
you expect of people with names like
that?"). They lived in the old Abernathy house, "surrounded by law
and order," to quote them again.
By this they meant that on one side
dwelt old Judge Harper who kept a more or less watchful eye on the grandchildren of his former partner,
and on the other, Miss Judith Or-
mond, now in her seventy-sixth year,
but nonetheless alert and energetic,
directed the gaze of two singularly
strong optics on the activities of her
young neighbors.

"Mac's Tops"

Miss Ormond had been a school
teacher in her day; and her day had been a long one. When she had been
retired upon reaching the age limit
her fury knew no bounds. The Street
resounded for weeks to the echoes
of her fulminations against the
school board. Finally she settled
down to a task which was never
neglected merely because it had been
self-imposed: the guardianship of
the morals, manners and general
activities of the young people on The Shortest Street.

"She can't be bluffed, fooled, or outwitted," Isobel Burke told Brenda
mournfully. "We've all tried it, you
may be sure. Once Eric and I left
the car two blocks from here and
slipped in the back way. She tele-
phoned Adelaide before breakfast
to say I'd got a ticket for overnight
parking. Mac usually adopts a
simple system: he calls her up just
before he starts out and tells her
where he is going, and when he expects to be back, and what route he
intends to follow. He says it saves
them both wear and tear on the
nervous system."

"Isobel, you're joking!"

The red-haired girl said grimly:
"Am I? Wait till you've dwelt
among us a little longer! Wait till
you go to a dance with Eric and
don't get home until after three in
the morning! The Ormond will call
and inquire—ever so sweetly!—to
ask if you caught cold coming in so
late!"

"Why with Eric?" Brenda was diverted. "You always mention Eric
as a possible cavalier on social occasions. How about the other men
in the neighborhood?"

Isobel shrugged. "There's Hugh Saltus—you know about him. A
married man and therefore taboo as an escort. Ab Abernathy's loads of fun but he's so devoted to Alaine
they're rarely separated. That leaves
only Mac and Eric—which leaves
only Eric."

Brenda inquired carelessly: "Anything the matter with Mac—as a
companion, I mean?"

An expression she had seen several
times on the other girl's face shad-
dowed it now.

"Mac is—" Isobel began, checked
herself and swallowed. "Mac's tops, Brenda," she said quietly. "Don't make any mistake about that!" And
then as Brenda did not reply, she
went on: "He's terribly ambitious,
for one thing; all wrapped up in his
work. He does enough for two men.
For another—" Again she paused.
The younger girl looked at her in
surprised question.

Harrisburg, April 9 (AP)—An
act to elect judges of the state on
a non-partisan basis has been drawn
for consideration by the Pennsylvania Bar association at its annual convention in Bedford this June.

The legislation is intended to "free
the courts as much as possible from
political influence," the association's
committee on judicial council, which
drafted it, said today. The committee is headed by Forrest G. Moor-
head, of Beaver county.

It would be an amendment to the
elections code of 1937, thereby avoiding the necessity of a constitutional amendment.

The act would require that candidates for the bench be listed on a
non-partisan ballot.

Under its terms an elected judge
could seek re-election without op-
position by announcing his candi-
dacy at least 70 days before the
primary. The act says:

"When a judge required to be elected in the law who is not prohibited by law to succeed himself
and who is serving a term to which he was elected has filed such nomination petition, no other person may
file a nomination petition as candidate in opposition to the incumbent."

Provide Open Contest

In cases where an elected judge
declines to run again, or where an
appointed judge seeks an elective
term, it would be an open contest
for all candidates who file petitions
at least 40 days before the primary.

The act would allow voters to
write in the name of a candidate if
they wished to vote against a judge
who kept other names off the ballot
election.

The candidate who received more
than one-half the total votes cast
in his particular contest — where
there was primary opposition —
would be the sole nominee for that
office.

The ballot for judges as prescribed
in the act would be called "official
non-partisan primary judicial ballot." The names of the candidates
would be printed without party affiliation. Sitting judges would be listed with their title of "judge" preceding the name.

It would be a paper ballot and
"shall not be placed upon an election machine in the form of ballot
labels, either at the primary or general election."

OPEN TO OFFERS

New Kensington, Pa. April 9 (AP)—
No matter how hazardous the job, Melvin S. Felice says he'll take it for a year with $500 the only remuneration. The 31-year-old former state highway patrolman declared he needed the money to send his mother

to a hospital and that the only string attached to the offer is that the job be "within the law." He's been without work since July.

ENVIRONMENT MEANS
NOTHING

Pittsburgh, April 9 (AP)—Richard Webb, 72, has worked at Carnegie library for 40 years but it hasn't made a reader out of him. His job is tending to generators and such like in the basement and in all his years he's never borrowed or read a single library book. Of the library proper Webb declares "I get lost up there."

CATTLE—Moderate activity featured trading in the cattle department yesterday forenoon and outlet for steers and she stock was mostly on a fully steady to strong basis, while bulls brought steady to a shade higher rates than close last week. Indications suggested a good clearance would be accomplished at the aforementioned rates. Top on steers was $5.60 paid for 13 head of good 1,021-1,302-pound yearlings and a few lots of 1,021-1,302-pound steers were good enough to sell from $9.20-9.35. Majority of steer offerings yesterday consisted of medium and good grades of around 800-1,200-pound weights that cleared within a price spread of $8.40-9.15. Some low medium and common kinds were noted selling from $8.25 down to $7.10. Eight head of baby beef type heifers that weighed 700 pounds brought $9 and that class were mostly kinds to sell from $6.50-7.50, including 1,010-pound average at the latter price. Most fat cows released at $5.50-6.25. Strictly good heifer kinds lacking. Canners and cutters brought mostly from $2.50-2.25, principally "holly" descriptions that sold under $4. Most sausage bulls brought from $6.25-6.75; odd head noted up to $6.90 and $7.

CALVES—Trading in the calf pens ruled slow and mostly 50c. lower than close last week. Good and choice vealers were mainly at $2.50-2.49, latter price the highest noted. Common and medium grades brought mostly from $6.50-8.50 and light calves dropped down to $5 or below. Some inferior underweights sold down to $2 per head.

HOGS—Local hog price schedule was revised to the higher than close last week on all weights and grades and the practical top was pegged at $5.70. Good and choice grade of 170-200, latter price the highest noted. Common and medium grades brought mostly from $6.50-8.50 and light calves dropped down to $5 or below. Some inferior underweights sold down to $2 per head.

AVOID "LOSS OF FACE" PAY BY CHECK

An Oriental will do almost anything to avoid 'loss of face'. To him, "face" means social and business standing, self respect, success, happiness.

Even over here "face" has importance as a business asset. You find it easier to get ahead in the world when people think well of you and consider you businesslike and dependable.

Paying by check is not only a great convenience but it actually smooths the path of progress for you. We invite you to open a checking account.

Dean Pleases Self In 5-Inning Debut

was brilliant as it was impressive
one as much as the big right-

AGAIN WE SAY... premium priced gasolines are good-BUT why pay the premium?

NU-BLUE SUNOCO

PROVED

UNSURPASSED in mileage

in scientific tests against 14 leading extra-priced gasolines ... yet it sells at regular gas price

Exhaustive tests conducted by a nationally known technical organization proved beyond question that Nu-Blue Sunoco is unsurpassed in mileage compared to 14 leading extra-priced gasolines, and since it sells at regular gas price, Nu-Blue Sunoco gave more-miles-per-dollar.

These tests were made to cover different driving speeds—low, medium and high, and regardless of speed Nu Blue Sunoco was unsurpassed in miles per gallon

"LOSS OF FACE"

PAY BY CHECK

An Oriental will do almost anything to avoid "loss of face." To him, "face" means social and business standing, self-respect, success, happiness.

Even over here "face" has importance as a business asset. You find it easier to get ahead in the world when people think well of you and consider you businesslike and dependable.

Paying by check is not only a great convenience but it actually smooths the path of progress for you. We invite you to open a checking account.
